Leading Our Squadron Forward

From The Desk of Cdr Robert L. Krieg, AP

THINK, THINK, THINK, BOATING!

I can't believe its March!

The Boat Show is over (good job P/C Mike B.), it's time to get that boat ready, at least in your mind, or if you have inside storage it's time to get started. Now if I can just remember what I was going to do this year. I know our boat is For Sale (28' Bertram). Oh yes! We took everything out of it and I mean everything. I guess we'll go down and give it a coat of wax and bring all the (sh) stuff back. Now we need to give this some thought! I could not believe the amount of needed stuff we had aboard. When we unloaded the boat the draft changed 2 inches. Now's the time to help save on that GA$ bill and get rid of that stuff you really don't need. And yes I will keep Bonnie; I don't know where I would be without her.

Good news we are still adding to our Event Calendar! Our goal is to have fun with more events than last year, and I think we have it beat already. To make our events more eventful we need funds to do so. We have our fund raiser going on and more coming up. The Squadron needs your help! If we are ever going to get our own building we need the funds to do so!

Come One! Come All!
Please Help Out!

Cdr. Bob.

Greetings Everyone:

Thanks to all who attended our February General Membership Meeting at Brownies on the Lake. Membership involvement is such an important part of our squadron. It would be great to see more of our members attend squadron meetings. Keep in mind, we have a beautiful room that has been provided by Brownies Restaurant at no extra charge, but without participation, that may change. Please support our squadron and Brownies.

2011 Merit Mark

Additional Thanks (well deserved!) goes out to Nancy Derocha who was also awarded a Merit Mark for 2011.

Thanks Nancy!

As a reminder, ABC3 class's begin March 7th, at 7pm, located in the Senior center attached to Civic Arena. We could use a few proctor's to help organize the class on the first and fifth week of every class. I will send other announcements out but please stop by if you have an hour or two. We will be offering some elective classes coming this Fall so if there is something you would like to take please let me know and we can set it up.

We are also in the need of more instructors at the public and advanced grade level, if you haven't taught in a few years or would like to please let me know. For those that need instructor recertification, I will be reaching out to you as we will be holding a one night recertification class before summer.

Think Spring!

Safety Tips

Two boys, age 11, are ice skating at a local pond. Suddenly, the ice cracks and one boy falls through into 34 degree Fahrenheit water. His friend runs to his aid, and potential tragedy grows as the second boy is pulled into the ice cold water by the panic stricken child already in the water. Unless help is immediately available, both boys will perish within a few minutes, either from drowning or hypothermia (decreased body temperature).

This tragic scenario is seen each winter across the country. Such needless deaths occur through recklessness, carelessness, or ignorance regarding proper locations for skating or ice fishing and proper rescue procedures for someone who has fallen through the ice.

Ice strength depends upon thickness, snow cover, changes in temperature, depth of the water under the ice, water flow (current), and water level. Schools of fish under the ice will also affect the integrity of the ice. The following principles should be adhered to at all ponds and lakes where ice skating or ice fishing activities take place.

1. Ice clouded with air bubbles should be avoided. Although it may appear as solid ice, this ice is typically weak. Ice must freeze to a uniform depth of at least four inches before it is firm enough for group skating or ice fishing.
2. Skaters and others should not go near partially submerged obstacles such as stumps and rocks where ice is weaker, and these dangerous areas should be clearly identified and avoided.
3. Ice over moving water is probably unsafe and should be avoided.
4. Ice should be examined for man-made hazards such as where ice has broken or been cut, and these hazards should be clearly identified.

Never permit skating or ice fishing alone. Adults should constantly supervise children skating, and skating should occur within a restricted area.

When a person falls through the ice, he or she should not attempt to climb out immediately, but rather, should kick to the surface and get horizontal in the water with their legs back of the torso, rather than underneath, in order to avoid jackknifing the body beneath the ice. Once the body is horizontal, the person should attempt to slide forward onto the ice. Once out of the water, the person should avoid standing near the broken ice. Roll away from the break area instead until you are several body lengths away from the ice break.

When an attempt is made to rescue someone who has fallen through ice, the rescuer must be protected from danger. Any device that helps to distribute the weight of the rescuer over a wide area will lessen the possibility that the ice will continue to break. Some type of equipment should always be used to extend the reach of the rescuer and thereby avoid the possibility of the victim dragging the rescuer into the water. Hockey sticks, ropes, tree branches, ladders, belts, and so forth are all suited to this purpose. A water cooler with a line attached makes an excellent buoyant and rescue aid.

A flat-bottomed boat, canoe or kayak also serves as excellent means to effect an ice rescue. These craft can easily be slid along the ice until contact is made with the victim. If the ice breaks under the boat or rescuers, they have a good rescue platform to continue the rescue or retreat to the safety of the shoreline. Whenever possible, the boat should be tethered with a safety line to shore.

Where no regular or improvised rescue devices are available, it may be necessary to form a human chain to effect a rescue. To form this chain, several rescuers approach as closely as they can within safety and then lie prone upon the ice, forming a chain. Each person holds tightly to the skaters' ankles or skates of the person ahead of him. When the lead person grasps the victim, the person nearest shore pulls the others back. If the ice breaks under the weight of the leading person in the chain, the individual can be held and drawn to safety by the others.

Victims of skating and other ice accidents may require emergency resuscitation procedures which need to be administered immediately while the victim is moved to a shelter. When the victim is brought to shore breathing, the rescuers should warm the victim as rapidly as possible. Bring the victim indoors, remove wet clothing, and wrap the victim's trunk in blankets until it is possible to immerse the person in warm water (102 degrees-105 degrees Fahrenheit). During the rewarming process, avoid rewarming the extremities until the core temperature is back to normal. The victim should also be examined by a physician.

Administrative Department—Executive Committee

Please make sure you check out the list of events (there have already been changes). Sunset Harbor is scheduled for August 3-5th, and we have a new cruise planned this year to Algonac Harbour ~ reservations and deposits are needed early to hold your spot. Please see enclosed flier and get your RSVP in now!

We are always looking for speakers and topics for our General Membership meetings, and we realize that we have members, colleagues, friends and family who would like to utilize this as an opportunity. What business are you in, or special skills do you have?

Are you a nurse who would like to give a presentation on first aid? Maybe you are an accountant and would like to give us tips on tax season. Are you a marina owner, a boat (or) car mechanic? How about a banker who wants to offer trust services, or just a handy-man (or woman) who is looking for some extra work? Do you sell Avon or other products? ... maybe you just know someone else who does? It could be anything at all!!!
